Whatever decision you come to, please take the time to make sure it is based on facts and sound science. Politifact and ProPublica are two reputable sites that have won Pulitzer Prizes that specialize in checking facts for you. There are numerous other reputable sites as well. Fact-check.org specifically bills itself as being nonpartisan. The health of our community is at stake. This issue deserves thoughtful time and research of the science and issues. Thank you so much for the time you take on this important issue.
