Subject: [EXTERNAL] Stevensville Safety Improvements - Weekly Update July 18-22, 2022

Good morning,

The Montana Department of Transportation and Schellinger Construction are progressing on the Stevensville Safety Improvements project.

Next week, crews will continue to pave the entire project area. This will occur Monday through Friday, from about 6:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m. Traffic controls will continue to be set up in multiple locations within the project area for the duration of this project. Please abide by the signs placed at the ends of driveways and all intersections and wait for the pilot car to travel in your routed direction. These signs are posted only within the pilot car setups on the project site.

Starting next week, Stevensville Safety Improvement weekly update emails will be sent from Becca MacLean, who I have copied to this email. She will be taking over as this project's Public Involvement Specialist as I move on to my next adventure. Thank you all for your kindness over the past few years.

Questions or looking for additional details? Please visit the Stevensville Safety Improvements webpage at: <https://www.mdt.mt.gov/pubinvolve/southstevi/>. You can also call the project hotline at 406-207-4484, operating Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., or email Becca at becca@bigskypublicrelations.com.

100 Deadliest Days: A Reminder to Stay Safe and Vigilant in Your Summer Travels

For many Montanans, Memorial Day weekend kicks off the start of summer travel, culminating with Labor Day weekend. Unfortunately, these summer months can also be some of the deadliest on Montana's roads due to increased motor vehicle crashes.

This period is known nationally as the "100 Deadliest Days of Summer," and has historically represented an increase in crashes and crash fatalities on our roadways due to greater traffic volumes and clear travel conditions that lower drivers' guards.

Before you make plans to travel this summer, commit to safe, lawful behavior and remain vigilant in sharing Montana's roadways with all system users. Never operate a motor vehicle while impaired. If you're driving a vehicle, buckle up before you go and insist your friends and family do the same. Using your seat belt is your best defense against serious injury or death in the event you're in a crash.

This is a Vision Zero Message from the Montana Department of Transportation. Learn more about the goal of Vision Zero here: <https://www.mdt.mt.gov/visionzero/>
