Subject: [EXTERNAL] Lolo National Forest Plan Revision Update - November 2023

Greetings!

I hope this email finds you enjoying all the activities that fall brings. The plan revision team and Lolo National Forest staff are currently focused on compiling the proposed action. Thank you again for the insightful input you have provided that is informing this effort. The table below lists the remaining engagements in October and upcoming in November. As always, you can find all engagement information posted on the Web Hub.

I also wanted to share a preview on additional information that you can expect in the next several months. First, we anticipate receiving the species of conservation (SCC) list to be used in plan development from the Regional Forester in November. We will share that information as soon as it is available. Secondly, our facilitators at the University of Montana are working on a summary of the public engagement that has occurred this year; we hope to share that report with you in December. We look forward to launching into more public engagements as we prepare for our anticipated release of the proposed action in early 2024!

As always, thank you for your interest and efforts in this process.

Amanda Milburn, Revision Team Leader
