Subject: Bitterroot River

Once again the government is thinking it knows what's best. Allowing the general public to do what it wishes along the river is insane. It's bad enough that the rich seem to acquire permits and change the river with no supervision and destroy our fishing and habitat. But now letting anybody along the river to do it will destroy it. This valley is struggling enough with our big game decline and nobody doing anything about it and now you want to put our fishing industry in jeopardy. See what money the industry brings in before you decide to destroy it because it won't come back with the snap of the finger.
