Subject: Re: Bitterroot Floodplain Issue

Just a quick note to voice my opposition to the proposed revisions in the county's floodplain regulations. Anyone who is familiar with the Bitterroot river would completely understand why these revisions would be a bad idea. There are enough existing properties/buildings on the river that are currently at risk that we do not need to add more by allowing building in the flood fringe. These revisions defy common sense and disregard the historical record of a river that shifts and changes course every year. Please maintain the current floodplain regulations.

Thanks you,
