Dear Greg,

I really appreciate you talking with me this morning, and feel that I can see your point of view much better now. Just want to say one more thing.....

Houses should not be built in the floodplain. The flood fringe is, by definition, part of the flood plain. All philosophy and ideology should be put aside in respect of this fact of nature.

As Dr. Vickie Watson of UM has said, "Building in the floodplain is like setting up your tent on a highway just because there are no cars coming by at the time."

Respectfully and Sincerely,
Patti Eldredge
