Like many county residents I am very concerned about the poor performance of the Commissioners' appointed county treasurer and the recent allegations she has made. For a very long time the Ravalli County Commissioners, as a whole, has earned a reputation for incompetence, cronyism, evasive and secretive behavior and poor decision making. You have lost the public trust. At this point I would like to officially request that Commissioners Chilcott and Iman recuse themselves from any further commissioner action related to the Treasurer's office and open themselves up to the investigation that will soon commence. If they are cleared during that time perhaps at least two of the commissioners will be restored. That leaves Foss, Stoltz and Burrows to publicly answer to why Valerie Stamey became their candidate of choice. I believe Ravalli citizens would appreciate hearing those three take responsibility for the problem riddled appointment and apologize for the impact it has had on our county. This is just common courtesy in the world of the average citizen but should be a standard course of action for those elected by the people.
